"She's My Friend!"

By Elizabeth Cole

Billy came running up the walk and breathlessly jumped into his mother's arms for a hug and a kiss. "Who was that walking home with you?" asked his mother. She looked down the street at a disappearing slender figure. "Oh," exclaimed Billy, "she's my friend!" His eyes sparkled and he grinned all over as the figure at the corner turned around and blew a kiss at him. "Well, so she's your friend, is she?" asked Billy's mother. "Who is she, ducky?" "Why, don't you know her, mother? She comes to our school and tells us stories and all about brushing our teeth n' everything, —and didn't you see her going into Mrs. Brown's last week when the baby was sick? And don't you remember last year when they gave that play in school and Polly was the health fairy and they got her some money to buy an automobile with? Why, you know her, mother." Billy was all out of breath in his eagerness to make his explanation understood.

"You're just about as clear as a muddy pool, son," said his mother, "but I gather she is the public health nurse. Is she?"

"Yes," replied Billy, a bit doubtfully, "sort of, but they have another name for her—it's a long word—it begins with 't.' You know what they have that sanatorium for at Laurel Hill."

"Oh, you mean tuberculosis?" questioned his mother, "a tuberculosis nurse?"

"Yes," replied Billy, not wholly sure whether or not he liked the word. "Tuberculosis," he said it over twice, deciding it was, after all, an intriguing addition to his vocabulary. "Yes, that's it—tuberculosis nurse, they call her. But anyway she's my friend."

That is a true story and it is told to introduce to the reader not only Billy's friend, but everybody's friend, the tuberculosis public health nurse.

The whole public health nursing movement grew out of a desire to be friendly, and a wish to do everything possible for anyone who was sick. Neighborliness and friendly care have always been known, but organized and scientific home-nursing care, designed to prevent disease, has only been developing within the past two decades.

The "public health nurse" (that is another name for her) is now such a recognized necessity in the community that we could not well live without her. Her work is not only to care for the sick, but she has come to be a health teacher as well, one who helps toward preventing sickness. Her work is also accorded with other community health work and she sometimes serves as a connecting link for various health organizations. There are nearly 20,000 of these trained public health nurses in the field today. Many are specialized tuberculosis nurses, while most of them care for tuberculosis patients in their homes.

It is almost impossible to realize what an important factor the tuberculosis nurse has been in the organized educational campaign to prevent and stamp out tuberculosis. Twenty-five years ago, under the late Sir William Osler's direction, two women medical students in Baltimore went to the homes of several patients who had been coming to the Johns Hopkins Hospital dispensary. There they instructed them regarding diet, fresh air, disposal of sputum, and generally inspected the home conditions. Tuberculosis was then regarded as a hopeless and inherited disease, the patients remained at home for the most part within close, stuffy rooms, and no care was taken to protect other members of the family from infection. This was the beginning of the ideas of having nurses specialize in tuberculosis care and prevention.

With the advent of the tuberculosis nurse to visit the home and give education in healthy living, naturally the children in many families wherein tuberculosis had been constantly spreading, could be saved. Children with infectious diseases were sent home from school, but formerly no one checked up to see whether or not proper treatment was given and precautions taken to keep the infected child from playing with others. The tuberculosis nurses did this, and, in cases of malnutrition in children so conducive to tuberculosis, they began to give the mothers instruction on diet, fresh air and other health habits. Health education in the home has become of increasing help in preventing tuberculosis, for this so often can follow such seemingly simple sicknesses as measles, colds, pneumonia.

The organized tuberculosis campaign, carried on for the past twenty years by the National Tuberculosis Association and affiliated State and local organizations, depends more and more on the co-operation of the public health nurse. They work together in teaching health to prevent sickness. Christmas seals, the funds of which support tuberculosis work, have helped to make it possible to have these specialized nurses in various communities. They should be in every community to bring health to mothers and children and to help decrease tuberculosis in this country. They should be in isolated districts as well as in crowded cities, so that every mother may be taught health and be able to say, as little Billy did, "She's my friend!"

Buy Christmas seals in December and help make it possible to have more tuberculosis nurses, everybody's friends.

Bob's Health Game

By Helena Lorenz Williams

"What's the good of bein' clean," mumbled Bob, whose mother had just made him get up from the table to wash his pot-black hands, before he tackled a large slice of bread with which he always began his dinner.

"It makes you healthy," answered his mother. That was all she had time to say, because at that moment the baby dropped a spoon on the floor and in the attempt to see where it had gone put his whole face in bowl of oatmeal. It was a dramatic moment. Mother was distressed and Bob and father laughed until the tears rolled down their cheeks.

Bob's mother was right, however. And the very next day at school he found out why. Miss Evans, the pretty teacher who had just come to Cornish from another town, introduced to the class a strange lady carrying a large portfolio. The lady, it turned out, was the country school nurse, and Miss Evans had asked her to talk to the class about a new game called the Modern Health Crusade.

It was the strangest game Bob had ever heard about. A fellow became a knight in a great war for health against the enemy Disease. Stranger yet was the fact that in order to stay in the game one had to wash one's hands, clean one's teeth, take a bath, and eat green vegetables. But the funniest thing of all was that these mean jobs no longer seemed so hateful. Because suddenly they became sword thrusts at an enemy, and the oftener one gave a thrust, the worse for the enemy and the better for the warrior. A really good warrior, in fact, was pretty sure of victory, which in this case meant that he was not likely to be bothered with measles, scarlet fever, whooping cough, and other awful things that some people were always getting. Bob had had the mumps once, and to his dying day he would not forget what it had felt like to have such a funny face and to stay indoors.

On his way home from school, Bob and his little neighbor Lillian, and her brother Joe, talked the matter over. Girls, it seemed, could be Modern Health Crusaders, too. And they all decided enthusiastically that keeping clean, eating green vegetables, and doing the other "chores" might not be so bad. The Crusaders received promotions in rank like the knights in King Arthur's day, from knight to knight banneret after which they could become knights of the Round Table.

One of the "chores" was to keep one's fingers out of one's mouth. "Gosh," said Bob, "maybe I could teach the baby to keep his fist out of his mouth." As he went through his front yard he read over the chores, marked on the score card which Miss Evans and the nurse had given him to read:—

1. I washed my hands before each meal today.
2. I brushed my teeth thoroughly.

3. I tried hard to keep fingers and pencils out of my mouth and nose.
4. I carried a clean handkerchief.
5. I drank three glasses of water, but no tea nor coffee.

6. I tried to eat only wholesome food including vegetables and fruit.
7. I drank slowly two glasses of milk.

8. I went to toilet at regular time.

9. I played outdoors or with windows open a half hour.

10. I was in bed eleven or more hours last night, window open.

11. I had a complete bath on each day of the week that is checked.

There are more than seven million boys and girls in the United States who are enrolled in the Modern Health Crusade. They are all in the war against disease, particularly tuberculosis, in order to make a healthier and happier America. In order to give a still greater number of children the opportunity to enlist in this army, the National Tuberculosis Association will hold its seventeenth Christmas seal sale throughout the country in December.

OREGON.

Hello here I am back again at my desk as write of the Oregon news to the JOURNAL, and ask not only Portland, but other places in Oregon where the Deaf reside, to send in news of interest to H. P. Nelson, 2829—62d Street S. E. Portland, Ore. Let us keep Portland in the limelight.

The party which was given by the S. F. L. Club on Saturday night, November 8th, at the home of Mrs. A. Kautz, was a swell affair. Many interesting games were played. Mr. Bud Hastings carried off the prize for the longest gum stretches. Mrs. C. Gannon won the prize for the finest old doll, while Mrs. C. Greenwald won a prize for correct names of faces pinned around the walls. About twenty were present. The event ended with a swell lunch and coffee. The committee in charge were Mrs. A. Kautz, chairman, assisted by Mrs. C. Greenwald and Mrs. Fisher.

Mr. and Mrs. Nelson took dinner with Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Reichle, on Sunday November 9th.

The deaf of Portland were nearly shocked recently upon learning of Mr. F. Delaunoy illness, caused by getting wet while working in a lumber yard. It nearly caused pneumonia to set in, but by order of a doctor he stayed in bed until all danger was passed. On Sunday, November 9th, Mrs. Reichle and Mr. Nelson called at the Delaunoy home to see the patient. To our surprise and joy we found Mr. Delaunoy much improved.

Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Nelson were invited to take dinner with Mrs. Guie Deliglio on Monday, November 10th. After dinner we played a game of three handed 500, as Mrs. Nelson and the writer were told a car would arrive at 7:30 P.M. to take us three over to Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Thierman's home for a few games of 500. Not being the least suspicious, the Nelsons waited for that never coming car. Suddenly to our surprise, about twenty deaf friends rushed in upon us as a welcome to our own home city, after an eight months trip East and through Canada. This party caused the Nelsons to forget Detroit for a short time. But the writer wants to say that Detroit deaf did give us a real welcome, and also a fine send off. And we find Portland deaf as hospitable as any other city where the writer recently visited throughout the East. Although Mrs. Nelson began to flirt with Detroit, she now is glad to be home again, in our beautiful Rose City of the Woolly West. The evening was spent in many new and interesting games with a few prizes carried off. Mr. C. A. Lynch was one of the hustlers who made the events a lively one. Mrs. Deliglio managed most of the affairs and everybody had a good time.

The Ladies of the S. F. L. met at the home of Mrs. A. Kautz for luncheon on Wednesday, November 12th.

Mr. Mrs. Nelson took dinner with Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Linde at their new cosy home in Rose City Park district, and in the evening enjoyed a few games of 500. They Lindes will soon trade their old car for a new one.

The Frats of Portland are preparing for a big time on Saturday, February 21st. The events will be new to the Portland deaf, and announcements will be out later.

Mr. A. Kautz, with his father, went on a fishing trip to Tillamook, Ore., on Saturday, November 8th.

Mr. and Mrs. Nelson called on Mrs. F. Metcalf on Wednesday, for a chat concerning their trip the past summer in the East and Canada.

Mrs. A. Kautz is getting to become a good driver, why does Mr. Kautz not drive his own car. They own a swell Oldsmobile touring car.

To the deaf of Portland and nearby towns. Kindly send in your subscription for the JOURNAL to the writer. Remember $2.00 will entitle you for one year to the JOURNAL weekly, and the writer will be glad to have you send all news of interest to him, as we want other places on the globe to see Portland is still on the map.

HENRY P. NELSON.

DETROIT.

[News items for this column may be sent to Mrs. C. C. Colby, 1738 Field Avenue, Detroit, Mich.]

Some Detroit friends have received an appeal for aid from the Los Angeles Silent Club. It reads as follows:—

—LOS ANGELES SILENT CLUB

Los Angeles has begun the task of raising funds with which to erect a Club House for the Deaf. A Building Fund has been started and is growing rapidly. On November 22nd we will have Bazaar for the special benefit of this Building Fund, and as our population is made up of the deaf from every State in the Union, we would like to have donations from all of our friends who care to contribute.

Toys, fancy work, sporting goods, clothing, cash, groceries or anything else of value will be greatly appreciated for this worthy purpose.

We are sure you will take a greater interest in our project after contributing. Perhaps some day we may obtain you in the New Building.

Contributions may be sent to Mrs. W. H. ROBERTS, Chairman, 687 South Harvard Boulevard, Los Angeles, California.

Mrs. Andrew Salmoud announced the engagement of her daughter, Helen, to Mr. Philip Larson, at a beautiful dinner given in their honor. Autumn flowers were artistically arranged about the home. The bride-to-be is a niece of Mr. G. P. Warriek, underwriter, at Boulevard and Gratiot Avenue. Congratulations.

The Howe family have been busy of late, preparing for guests, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Ash (nee Miss Jessie Ypma), of East Iowa. They are visiting them the second week of November. Both Mr. and Mrs. Ash attended the Michigan School for the Deaf. Mrs. Ash was a former classmate of Mrs. Howe.

Word reaches the Howes that Mrs. Sadie F. Spronil is taking a long earned vacation with friends in Flint, Mich. Her visit is indefinite. Her friends hope she returns soon as they all miss her smiling face and brilliant chatter.

Mr. Harry Unruh died of an operation last Wednesday. He died in the Memorial Hospital at Kalamazoo, Mich. He will be remembered by many of Detroit's younger set. He was 29 years old. He was a draftsman, and left Detroit two years ago for a better position at Kalamazoo.

Mrs. W. K. Liddy's mother and sister, of Kitchener, Ont., are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Liddy in Windsor, for a few weeks.

The R. V. Joneses, of Royal Oak, Mich., royally entertained the visitors a few Sundays ago. Among them were Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. John Moore, Mr. Clarence Moore and lady friend, Mr. Walter Moore, Mr. Wilhelm, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Davies, Mrs. Percy Isenhardt, Mr. and Mrs. Sparrow.

Mr. A. L. Roberts, grand treasurer of the N. F. S. D. and N. A. D. president, of Chicago, is coming to Detroit, the "City of Dynamic," November 29th, to deliver a lecture at the G. A. R. Building, under the auspices of the Detroit Division, No. 2, N. F. S. D.

Many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. F. Tripp, of Flint, Mich., will be pleased to learn that Mrs. Tripp, who was operated on at the hospital October 27th, is doing finely.

Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Berry, of Royal Oak, gave a card party and social at their home, Saturday evening, October 25th, for the benefit of Royal Oak chapter, M. A. D., and about over four dollars was cleared for the good cause. About twenty-five loyal supporters were present from Royal Oak, Detroit and Rochester, and a good time was had by all till the wee sma' hours.

Rev. Mr. F. C. Smielau, of Seelins Grove, Pa., will be in Detroit November 21st, and he will give a lecture at the D. A. D. Club, Saturday evening, November 22d.

His subject will be "Things that will make you think and laugh." He thence will go to Flint, Mich., to hold a service Sunday the 23d.

While in Detroit the Reverend will be the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Hey manson.

The meeting of the Clover Club was held at the new and cosy home of Mrs. R. V. Jones, 22676 Couzens Avenue, Royal Oak, Township Thursday, November 13th. Sure enough that "13" was a lucky number, for all ladies were there in time to grab a prize! The name of the prize winners will be known in the next issue.

Miss Olive Johnston, of Sarnia, Canada, and Mr. Paul Stemplowsky, of Detroit, were married by the Rev. Dr. J. J. Patterson, October 15th, in Sarnia, Canada. The newly-weds are living in Detroit, as the young man has a steady position. Congratulations.

Howard Rigsdale, of Little Rock, Ark., dropped in the D. A. D. Club the other day. He came to Detroit in search of work, but he unfortunately was disappointed and returned home to Little Rock. He is a printer by trade.

Carl Feit lost his index finger by Drill Press Wednesday, November 5th, at Reamer Dodge Bros. He is laid off for several weeks.

Miss Martha, hearing sister of Miss Charlotte Powter, was given a surprise miscellaneous shower the other day. She will be married to Mr. Priest, hearing, December 24th. Congratulations.

About fifty deaf from Detroit were in Flint, Mich., Saturday, November 1st, to attend the Halloween social and opening of the new club room on Second Avenue, near Hotel Durant. All had a grand time.

Eddie Payne, former Windsorite, who is employed in Jackson, Mich., went home to Windsor, Canada, to pay his family a visit for a few days. He called at the D. A. D. Club while on the way and had a grand chat with the boys.

Rocco De Napoli, former New York boy, returned to Detroit some time ago, from his three months' trip to Colorado, Kansas, Oklahoma and New Mexico. He reported his visit in the west was wonderful.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter J. Musladin motored to Detroit from San Francisco, Cal., some time ago, for a pleasure trip. They spent a few weeks in Detroit and made themselves happy callers at the D. A. D. Club. Their Ford Sedan was the center of admiration, on account of its wonderful long trip from California to Michigan. They then motored through the Southern States back to their sunny home in California.

Mrs. Atchison Scott, of Halfway, Michigan, was in Detroit calling on Mrs. C. Stegner, Andrew Nissilla and Tony Czubeck, and spent Sunday, November 9th, in Flint, Mich., for a pleasure visit.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Stegner wish to inform their friends that their new home address is 4768—14th Street, near Grand River, on the first floor flat of six rooms. They are preparing to give a house-warming in a short time.

Mrs. Martha Shertz gave a Halloween party Saturday evening, November 1st, at her daughter's home. Those who were fortunate to be there reported a fine time.

Herbert Jenkins and wife, who went last August to visit Mrs. Jenkins' folks in Fount, Ky., are getting homesick for Detroit. It is reported Herbert is coming back soon.

Domenic De Fazio, who last summer won several prizes at several picnics, has returned to the Flint School as post-graduate. He works in the printing office.

Mrs. Pearl Tenney Gatton, our old friend of Detroit, who left last summer for Minnesota to take care of her aged father, has left there for Chicago. Now she is working and is stopping at the home of Mrs. A. Tanzer. We hope she will hike back to Detroit to be with her two fine sons.

Wendell Wagner and Robert Lane are now in Florida on a visit. They went by way of Chicago and Memphis in a Chevrolet.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Stegner's daughter Virginia is now in Chicago working as an operator for the Western Union Main office, in Telephone Dept. She was transferred from Detroit to Chicago for about three months. She is a very pretty and very bright, and can use the deaf signs. She will drop in and see the Chicago Correspondent of the JOURNAL and his ever smiling Freida.

Before going to Chicago, Virginia tendered a Halloween party for her young friends from the Western Union, October 25th. The flat was decorated in Halloween style, and at midnight refreshments were given. They danced until 4 o'clock.

Mrs. Fred Wheeler, of Kalamazoo, Mich., who spent a summer visiting her folks in upper Michigan, has returned home and reports a fine time.

Eldon Birdwell is a young deaf man who is employed by the United States Tire Co., and it seems, he enjoys himself with the young set at the D. A. D. Club.

Wish to correct the statement that it was Mrs. Wm. Rheiner who was with Leon LaPorte as sponsors for little Cyril, second son of Mr. and Mrs. F. Bourcier, that was baptized at Holy Redeemer (Catholic) by Father Kaufmann, October 22d.

For the second time in four years the people of Michigan have rejected a proposed Constitution Amendment to outlaw private and church schools. These returns show a majority of 250,000 against the amendment, a ratio of two to one. The victory in defense of the parochial and private schools is due largely to the fair minded non-Catholics of Michigan.

Thank you.

Mrs. C. C. C.

Cleveland, O.

In the Press of Monday afternoon, November 10th, it was stated Mrs. Laura McDill Bates tell from her horseback while riding for recreation in Rockefeller Park, and had her nose and jaw fractured. She was taken to Sinai Hospital. We hope earnestly for her speedy recovery.

The C. A. D. founded by Mrs. Bates, though never incorporated, met in a circle at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Bohnert, Saturday evening.

The club has been keeping up in activities involved in a veritable maze of benefit affairs, all due to the credit of its most loyal and faithful members, who have for many past years stood for the C. A. D. in the hope of universal brotherhood.

Mrs. Ross Mohr was called to see her dying sister in Philadelphia last month. The loss of her sister has lengthened her stay there indefinitely.

Mr. and Mrs. Foster moved back from the west side to the east side. Much pleasure to the writer to have them back as neighbors. They were dated to play chess this week.

Mrs. Krull is the latest on the list of bobbed motherhood, and is looking a little bit more youthful.

Discussions concerning how to offset the menace of impostors, and to arrange in memory of Gallaudet day. As a first step the C. A. D. ought to take seriously the opportunity for valuable service in a field which is of vital concern to us all.

The Hospitality Committee of the Cleveland Association for the Deaf and Hard of Hearing served tea at about 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon, at Hall House, 2836 Euclid Avenue. Those interested are oralists, I understand.

The C. A. D. will give an entertainment in memory of our great benefactor Thomas H. Gallaudet Saturday evening, December 13th, at Grace Episcopal Church.

An event that is arousing more than usual interest and enthusiasm is the purchase of a $13,000 church by St. Agnes Mission. The church is located at the corner of the 48th St., West and Clinton Avenue, within convenient distance of the most residences of the deaf, and just the place where deaf comers want to meet deaf Clevelanders and friends and make acquaintances.

The new church may not be ready for occupancy till January.

In it was reported that Martin Maynard won the honor for his steady attendance at the meetings of eight past years.

However, he stayed out of the banquet in memory of his mother, whose funeral he attended in West Virginia last September.

How we envy another's fortune in her journey through the biggest city of the United States, with its swellest avenues, West Point, Bear Mountain, and other spots down and about there. The one of whom we spoke was our guest last Sunday, Mrs. Luella Carroll, who returned recently after a long trip and a call in the office of the New York DEAF MUTES' JOURNAL.

Mrs. Laura Frederick Erickson, of Washington D. C., is expected to stop and visit her old College friends in this city this week, on her way to join her husband in Chicago, where he has been employed since last August.

NATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF THE DEAF

DE L'EPEE MEMORIAL STATUE FUND.

To the editor of the DEAF-MUTES' JOURNAL:

Among the questions which I asked in the DEAF-MUTES' JOURNAL, of October 16th, about the work of the National Association of the Deaf was what became of the movement of the De l'Epee Memorial Statue Fund. I was not familiar with the origin of the De l'Epee memorial project.

An account of the proceedings of the Cleveland convention of 1913, of the N. A. D., reveals the fact that a motion to raise a fund to erect a monument to the Abbe De l'Epee, was passed by the convention. Dr. J. H. Cloud read a paper at that convention, bringing the proposition forward. It was endorsed by the convention unanimously. Later on, President Howard appointed Dr. Cloud, Mr. Anton Schroeder, of St. Paul, Minn., and the late Father, McCarthy, of New York, members of the original committee of the memorial fund.

Before the convention adjourned, Dr. Cloud and Father McCarthy were filmed by the N. A. D.—Father McCarthy reading Dr. Cloud's paper orally while Dr. Cloud signed it—as they did at the Atlanta Convention. This (400 feet) has been shown quite generally and is still available.

It gave added impetus to the movement for the fund. The original committee gathered in funds at an encouraging rate. Dr. Cloud continued as chairman of the committee until his election to the presidency of the N. A. D. four years later. Father McCarthy died, and Mr. Samuel Frankenheim, of New York, was appointed to the vacancy.

In 1917-20 the fund did not increase much, not because of the lack of energy on the part of the committee in charge, but because of the various drives for other worthy objects. During the war the collection of money was stopped so that the deaf public might serve our country by subscribing to the Liberty Bonds, and purchasing War Savings Stamps, and contributing to numerous war relief societies and committees all over the country.

During Dr. Cloud's second administration the response to our appeal for the fund was very satisfactory. Mr. Schroeder, treasurer of the committee, resigned.

According to Mr. Frankenheim's report, the fund on hand is $5,801.62. Several hundred dollars has been added to it since March, 1924. This speaks very well for Mr. Frankenheim. He will continue his work until the object is attained. It is hoped that the desired result will be accomplished in our time.

Childhood's Shining Armor—Health

By HELENA LORENZ WILLIAMS

No one has ever discovered why small boys detest having their ears scrubbed or hate to wash their hands before they come to table; or why, for that matter, they never voluntarily clean their finger-nails. One might think that these are only trials that descend upon mothers to try their love as well as their tempers, except that science has now found a way to lighten the burden of making children hygienic just as efficiently as she invented the vacuum cleaner and the washing machine.

Several years ago a man named Charles M. DeForest, whose young son was as averse to performing his ablutions as anybody else's son, hit upon the idea of combining the pursuit of cleanliness with adventure and romance. He simply converted each "chore," as he called the boy's daily health tasks, into so many sword thrusts against the great dragon Disease. The plan worked; so well in fact, that the National Tuberculosis Association organized a nation-wide Modern Health Crusade movement as one of its educational departments. Since then more than eight million boys and girls have been enrolled as warriors in the fight for perfect health. Briefly, the idea is this: each child receives a score card against which he daily checks the chores he has performed. These consist of the following:

1. I washed my hands before each meal today.
2. I brushed my teeth thoroughly.
3. I tried hard to keep fingers and pencils out of my mouth and nose.
4. I carried a clean handkerchief.
5. I drank three glasses of water, but no tea nor coffee.
6. I tried to eat only wholesome food including vegetables and fruit.
7. I drank slowly two glasses of milk.
8. I went to toilet at regular time.
9. I played outdoors or with windows open a half hour.
10. I was in bed eleven or more hours last night, windows open.
11. I had a complete bath on each day of the week that is checked (x).

This great child health movement is such a success that a number of States have incorporated the Modern Health Crusade system in the school curricula as an adjunct to the study of hygiene. As the children progress in the work they receive the titles of the knight, knight banneret, knight banneret constant and Knight of the Round Table. Bright gold and enamel insignia proclaim their rank.

The education of the children in correct habits of health, is one of the greatest factors in the control of tuberculosis. The National Tuberculosis Association and its affiliated organizations, therefore, concentrate a large part of their activities on this phase of the campaign. In order to continue the work, the seventeenth annual Christmas seal sale will be held throughout the country in December.

SEATTLE

PLAYING TO THE GALLERIES

In the April issue of the Frat the following appeared:

"On March 1, the Seattle Division after free and fair discussion voted better than two to one to instruct its delegate to St. Paul to vote for the admission of women.—[Olof Hanson, Seattle, Wash.]

About the same time there appeared in the JOURNAL a similar statement about a "free and fair discussion" which was signed by the Hansons.

In the November 6th issue of the JOURNAL the following appeared:

"As to my first article to the JOURNAL about the subject of insuring women in the N. F. S. D., certainly I shall speak up at any time that I deem a good one for a cause that I think just and reasonable. And all the more so on account of the tactics used here in Seattle to suppress a fair and open discussion of the subject. It was my indignation at the lack of fair play that led me to say anything at all. AGATHA TIRGEL HANSON."

Evidently our Hanson friends in their anxiety to make a grand stand play have gotten things sadly mixed.

SEATTLE FRATS PLANNING GREAT THINGS

Seattle Division, No. 44, National Fraternal Society of the Deaf are planning great things for December 27th, 1924.

It's the time for their annual holiday party. They have rented a hall and are looking for all the deaf in Western Washington to be present. Light refreshments will be served, two billiard tables are handy, dancing, games, artistic dancing will help pass the time. The committee is also looking for several original stunts to pull off. The idea is to fill the time from 7 to 12 P.M.

The affair will be held at the A. O. U. W. Hall on Ninth Avenue, between Pike and Union Streets, six blocks east of the Post Office. Take any Pike street car going east from Third Avenue, get off at Ninth and walk one block south, or taken an University car and get off at Eighth Avenue, and walk east one block.

The annual election of officers takes place the first of December. We would not be surprised to see most of the old officers re-elected. Good service usually wins support.

Oscar Anderson, from North Dakota, but a member of the St. Paul Division, is a new arrival in town. He expects to remain here if he secures work.

At the last meeting of the Frats a number of new members "walked the path of wisdom," the Frats know what that is. If you do not, then why not join the Frats and find out. W. S. Root.

Nov. 17, 1924.

The papers say that D'Annunzio, the great Italian patriot and poet, has gone into seclusion, vowing never to mingle with men again. He has shut himself up in a villa, guarded by fierce dogs. His only attendants are two deaf-mutes who cook his food and wait on him. They say nothing and hear nothing. They only carry out orders.

If these deaf-mutes are intelligent beings and as well educated as the deaf-mutes of this country, they might be able to gather quite a fund of interesting information that could be put into writing and run as a serial in some enterprising newspaper.—California News.

While you are giving— give health

THE greatest gift of all is health. You can give that priceless treasure of health to many this Christmas. Buy Christmas Seals. Everywhere are solitary sufferers and whole families stricken by the Great White Plague. Often they have no help except that furnished by the Tuberculosis Associations, which are financed by the annual sale of Christmas Seals.

Give—and feel the joy that comes with giving.

Buy Christmas Seals. They have helped stamp out half the ravages of consumption. Buy Christmas Seals, and help stamp out the dread disease entirely.

The Committee in charge of the Fair, which was held during the week ending November 15th, submitted an incomplete report of its successful work, at the Guild Meeting last Thursday evening. The total receipts to date were given as $1,123.15. Total expenditure, $132.93. Balance on hand, $1,000.22. A resume of the earnings of the various booths will be published as soon as available. Total of $169.05 in checks and cash was donated from various benefactors. The total value of the goods and articles donated to help the work of the booths is incalculable. A most wonderful spirit of co-operation was shown by the public. The committee and its numerous assistants, and chiefly the chairman, Mrs. Edward Rappolt, are to be congratulated on account of the record set by the success of this year's Fair. It seems to be proved that the deaf of New York City are favorably disposed toward such affairs, and we hope that the next local association undertaking this kind of an enterprise will have as good result, or better.

The first Tuesday of each month is Literary and Social Evening at St. Ann's Guild House. Admission free. Visitors welcome. A good program of stories and games is scheduled for December 2d, at 8:15 P. M.

The Rev. John H. Kent devoted Sunday evening, November 23d, to the telling of detective stories in the Assembly Room of St. Ann's Guild House. More of the same kind of entertainment will be given by him on the fourth Sunday of each month. A silver offering was taken up for the Decimal Chapter for repairs in the Guild House.

The Sorority of Jewish Deaf, now in their third year, sincerely wishes it clearly understood, that the Society has highest regards for any societies and associations similar to theirs and still desire to hold their ground as a club of their own for Jewish women only. Their ambition is to achieve the betterment of social standing among women, also welfare work, if they find it within their bounds. The Sorority will entertain the deaf public with a Whist and Dance on the afternoon and evening December 7th, at their temporary headquarters at the Hebrew Educational Society, Hopkinson and Sutler Avenues, Brooklyn, N. Y.

On Sunday, November 23d, a surprise linen shower was given to Miss Jane Henry, whose engagement was announced in this column a few weeks ago. To describe the event would be putting it mildly, as it certainly was a big affair and took Miss Henry by surprise, to say the least. It was held in Miss Etta Aaron's as she was the one who planned it, and those who were present besides Misses Henry and Aaron were: Misses Anne Seide, Sarah Katzner, Gertrude Lefkowitz, Celia Epstein, Mrs. Ruben Cohen, Mrs. Julius Farliser, Mrs. J. Morganstein, Mrs. Philip Basel, and Mrs. Herman Chaucer. The affair was greatly enjoyed by every one, and thanks are due to Miss Etta Aaron, who proved to be a fine hostess.

It is with regret to chronicle the death of Mr. Gustav Arwinski's wife, which occurred on November 4th, 1924, at the age of 71. She lived in Brooklyn for 35 years, and had been happily married for 33 years. She was born in Germany. Death was caused by dropsy and other complications of diseases. The members of the Lutheran Deaf congregation extend their heartfelt sympathy to Mr. Gustav Arwinski.

Nominations of officers for the ensuing year, at the Brooklyn Silent A. C., resulted as follows: For President, Paul Di Anno, by acclamation; for Vice-President, Charles Munroe, by acclamation; for Secretary, Henry Dramis, pro tem.; for Treasurer, Allen Hitchcock, by acclamation; for Sergeant-at-Arms, A. Baschen and Max Neufeld.

On Friday evening, November 28th, after the regular service under the auspices of the Hebrew Association of the Deaf, Prof. William G. Jones, will give a reading, at the Park and Tilford building, on Lenox Avenue, between 125th and 126th Street. Admission is free. All are welcome.

A deaf-mute from Barrow on Farnace, England, named William Chambers, is now in New York to stay. He is a painter by occupation.

Miss Anne Hamburger, and her mother left for Atlantic, N. J., on Sunday, November 23d, for a week's visit to her brother.

REV. ARTHUR BOLL

HONORED ON THE ANNIVERSARY OF HIS TWENTY-FIFTH YEAR'S WORK TO LUTHERAN DEAF.

On Sunday, November 16th, 1924, at 3 P. M., the congregation of deaf-mutes took cognizance of the Pastor's twenty-fifth year's work in the interest of the deaf-mutes, for which a service had been arranged, and Rev. Otto Schroeder, of Cleveland, preached.

A large number of deaf friends of the Lutheran pastor were in attendance, besides other friends and visitors at the Immanuel Lutheran Church, at South 9th Street, Brooklyn, N. Y., to honor and celebrate the twenty-fifth anniversary of Rev. Arthur Boll's work among the deaf.

Rev. Otto Schroeder, a minister to the deaf, came all the way to Brooklyn from Cleveland to hold the service on the occasion.

Messages of congratulations to Rev. Mr. Boll were received by the Rev. Mr. Holthusen, the pastor of the Immanuel Lutheran Church, from several Lutheran pastors of St. Louis, St. Paul, Milwaukee and other cities, and were read by Rev. Mr. Holthusen.

After the doxology, refreshments were served to all who were present. Mrs. Hjalmar Borgstrand was chairman of the committee in charge.

Silver coins, to the amount of twenty-five dollars was presented to Rev. Arthur Boll, by the chairman in behalf of the members of the deaf congregation, for whom he has labored and is devoting his time.

The following pastors were present at the celebration of Rev. Mr. Boll's twenty-fifth anniversary: Rev. Otto Schroeder, of Cleveland; Rev. G. Kaestner, of Flushing, L. I.; Rev. Schumm, of Redeemer Church, 46th Street, New York City; Rev. J. Holthusen, of Immanuel Lutheran Church, South 9th Street, Brooklyn, N. Y.; Rev. Grasser, of the Trinity Lutheran Church, 9th Street and Avenue B, New York City.

It was through Mrs. Hjalmar Borgstrand, the chairman of the committee, that the occasion proved so successful, and the congregation all join with her in giving praise and thanksgiving to God, our Saviour Jesus Christ.

Who Did He Disappoint

In the issue of November 13th, The Spectator at Saint Paul, J. F. Meagher says I was "disappointed" as a "representative" of Division No. 1, at the Frats' Convention. Well, maybe I was, because I was not "a meek, mild, quiet little man," for that little bombast to dedicate.

SEATTLE.

Washington and California had their annual football battle last Saturday, in the Stadium on the campus here, and the result was a tie, 7 to 7. The great crowd that turned out to see the game were well repaid, for it was a fine struggle between well matched teams. California had beaten us every year for five years, and we were delighted to send her team home without their usual victory. California made her touchdown in the third quarter, and for a while it looked as if Washington would not score at all. Then in the last three minutes of the final quarter Washington tied her opponent, and the crowd went wild. Neither team scored during the first half, and during the intermission over five thousand students sang in unison:

California, you are up against it now!
California, we are going to show you how!
California, California, your golden bear is nothing but a cow!

Most Most

At the P. S. A. D. meeting Saturday evening, George Riley gave an impromptu talk that was much enjoyed. George has a fluent and graceful use of humorous signs that always make him a welcome figure on our platform. The Rileys left for home on Tuesday, after being feted and entertained daily during their stay here of two weeks.

The Board of Directors of the State Association has voted to accept the invitation sent by the P. S. A. D., to hold the biennial Convention in Seattle next summer. So the place is assured though the date is not yet settled. Jack Bertram is chairman of the local committee, and is expected to make things hustle. He has appointed to assist him, Mesdames Wright and Hanson, Miss Stowe, and Messrs. Christensen, Holcombe and Wilcox. The first entertainment to raise funds since Seattle has been selected for the convention city will be at the Bertram house on November 22d. It will be also in the nature of a house warming, as the extensive alterations that have been made on the house will then be completed. Mrs. Wright and Mrs. Gustin will assist Mrs. Bertram on the occasion.

The divorced wife of Charles Al. Gumaer died on October 24th, from some ailments of long standing. On request of the sixteen year old daughter, Hannah, Mr. Gumaer took charge of funeral arrangements. Hannah is boarding with some friends for the winter, and attending business College. In the Spring Mr. Gumaer intends to enlarge his little home at Richmond Highland, and add three or four rooms. Hannah will then keep house for her dad.

Jack Seipp is now in town looking for work, and we hope he lands a nice fat job and stays here. There has been talk of his going east, and we do not want it to be more than talk, as we want and need him at home.

The little son of Ed. Miland, who had the serious accident to his arm last summer, is doing finely, except that he cannot move the thumb on the arm that was broken. An operation will be performed with the hope of remedying this.

Roy Harris is planning to spend his Thanksgiving at Wenatchee, where his little boy is now living with his wife's parents. The little fellow is quite homesick and longs for his Seattle home. Roy will visit him as frequently as he can.

Gallaudet Day will be observed on December 13th this year, both in Seattle and Tacoma. Seattle has its regular P. S. A. D. meeting that night, and before it begins the members will dine together at a restaurant, reserving a private room. In Tacoma Dr. Hanson will be the speaker of the evening, and after his lecture, there will be refreshments served by the ladies.

Seth Ladd, who was visiting his daughter for a few days, attended the P. S. A. D. meeting Saturday. Mr. Ladd keeps looking well and young.

The Annual Frat New Year party will be held on December 27th this year, at the A. O. W. W. Hall, on 9th Avenue, near Pike. These New Year parties have always been record breakers, and have been greatly enjoyed. We suppose that this year will be no exception.

Dr. Hanson will hold church services in Vancouver, Wash., and Portland on Sunday, November 23d, in Vancouver at 2 P. M., at St. Luke's Church, and in Portland at 4 P. M. at St. Mark's, corner 21st and Marshall Streets.

By the death of the Rev. C. O. Danizer, the deaf of this country have lost a man of lovable character and high attainments. Mr. Danizer was a classmate of the writer at Gallaudet. After leaving College we did not meet for many years until 1915, when he spent a few days in Seattle after a visit in California. What impressed me most was his remarkable growth both mentally and spiritually since leaving College. In that respect he surpassed any other man that I know of. A great many attain their maximum development with the close of their school days, and from that time either remain stationary or go backward. But in the case of Mr. Danizer the close of his college career served as the commencement of higher and better attainments.

THE HANSONS.

Nov. 15, 1924

Gallaudet College.

Cold weather has hit the Green. Once we even had a bit of snow. The time for rescuing woolens from moth balls has come.

On November 21st, at 7:30 P. M., the Literary Society gave a program in Chapel. Mr. Beauchamp, '25, gave an engrossing account of "Life at Cambridge." Then followed a debate on the topic, "Resolved, That the K. K. K. is a public menace." Mr. Flood, '29, and Mr. Teeple, P. C., supporting the affirmative side, carried the greatest weight, according to the judges, and won over Mr. Lewis, '28, and Mr. Peihoff, P. C. Mr. Holden, P. C., treated the audience to a whirlwind story of his trip to New York City on "The Twentieth Century Limited." He brought the house down. "My Tummy's Got A Pain," was well delivered by Mr. Brower, '28, and it was a laughable piece. Mr. Penn, '25, acted as critic.

Gallaudet capped the '24 season football schedule with a sweeping victory over St. Joseph College at Philadelphia, November 22d. The Phillies could not do much of anything against Gallaudet. The Buff and Blue color bearers marched down the field at will, blanketing their opponents with the score of 38 to 0. The game was played in mud and rain. Gallaudet's running attack functioned perfectly. Massinkoff featured with long runs and three touchdowns. Rose cut through the line at will and scored twice. Byouk went across once. Only twice were the Phillies within striking distance of our goal, as the result of two fumbles by our men, but they couldn't budge our line at all. The teamwork on Gallaudet's part was superb.

State Aid for Gallaudet Students.

The Pittsburgh correspondent recently spoke of securing State aid for Gallaudet Students, and asked how it was done in other states.

The first State to give such aid, I believe, was Washington, and it was in or about the year 1905. At that time the writer was guardian of Miss Bertha Thiessen, now Mrs. Morton Henry of Chicago. We wanted to send her to college. A ticket to Washington, D. C., cost quite a bit. So we worked about for some help.

Living right under the shadow of the State University and observing how generously the State provided for the higher education of its young people, it occurred to us that the State might pay the travelling expenses of deaf students to and from Gallaudet College.

The Legislature met in 1905. One of the members was Mr. Albert H. Beebe, a lawyer. He was married to Miss Rose Andrews, formerly a teacher in the Minnesota School for the Deaf. We were good friends. It was easy to enlist his interest in behalf of the deaf. A bill was drawn up for presentation to the Legislature. But it was never presented, or if presented at all, it was allowed to slumber peacefully in Committee. Mr. Beebe had a better plan.

He was a member of the Committee on appropriations, and he told me himself what occurred at a meeting of the Committee. While appropriations for State institutions were under consideration, he reached across the table for the appropriation schedule. After explaining to the other members of the Committee what he was doing, he wrote in, under the heading of appropriation for the School for the Deaf, something like this:

"For traveling expenses of students attending Gallaudet College, Washington, D. C., $2,000."

That is all there was to it. There was no objection; no discussion on the floor. It passed, and the money was available a few months later.

The only aid asked was for traveling expenses, so as to place the draft on an equal footing with the hearing students, who could attend the State University near home.

Since then every legislature, with possibly one or two exceptions, has repeated the appropriation for traveling expenses, and students from this State are on an equal footing with those living close to Gallaudet.

OLOF HANSON
SEATTLE, WASH., NOV. 11, 1924

There will be a social for the Fanwood Alumni Association, preceded by a brief business meeting, at the Institution, on the evening of Saturday, November 29th, 1924.

WM. G. JONES,
Secretary.

FANWOOD.

Founder's Days was celebrated last Friday. Exercises were held in the Chapel in the morning, which were presided over by the Principal. In the afternoon at 2:30 the Annual Competition was held between the Cadet Companies for the honor of carrying the colors for the ensuing year. The Reviewing Officer was Captain Francis J. Kelly, Jr., U. S. Marine Corps, accompanied by First Lieutenant Herbert S. Keimling, First Sergeant William H. Woods, Sergeant Raymond A. Cramer, and First Class Private William B. White, all of the U. S. Marine Corps stationed at the Marine Barracks, Navy Yard, Brooklyn. In the presence of a fairly good number of spectators, the following program was carried out:

Battalion Review by Captain Kelly.

Two sets of Setting-up Exercises, accompanied by our Cadet Band under the leadership of Lieutenant William H. Edwards.

Evening Parade, under the command of Captain C. C. Altendetter, followed by the Intercompany Competition.

"A" Company was called first, followed by "B" and "C" Companies in successive order. The results were as follows:

Company "A"—Manual of Arms, 94 per cent; Close Order, 98 per cent; Average, 96 per cent.

Company "B"—Manual of Arms, 91 per cent; Close Order, 97 per cent; Average, 94 per cent.

Company "C"—Manual of Arms, 92 per cent; Close Order, 95 per cent; Average, 93 per cent.

Captain Kelly in making the award, which was interpreted by Principal Gardner, complimented the boys on their high proficiency, and stated that while he expected to see a very good drill, the performance he had witnessed had exceeded his highest expectation. He commended the precision of movements and cadence of the cadets. He also thanked them for the opportunity of reviewing them and for giving him such a treat.

The officers were entertained afterward by the Principal and light refreshments were served.

Having U. S. Marine Officers review and judge the Competition was an innovation. Since its organization in 1892, none but regular army or national guard officers have ever acted in this capacity. In 1917 the Marine Corps adopted the United States Army tactics, therefore there is now no difference in their manual.

Dr. Charles A. Leale, Chairman of the Committee of Instruction, who never misses any important Institution function, complimented and thanked the officers for their kindness in giving so much of their valuable time to us.

In the evening the Protean Society, whose membership is composed of the cadet commissioned officers, and the Adrastian Society, a similar organization among the girls, enjoyed a bountiful supper served in the Officers' Dining-room. Afterward all repaired to the Girls' Study Room, where dancing was indulged in until a late hour.

On Thursday last, the Cadet Band, under the leadership of Lieutenant William H. Edwards, accepted an invitation to play at the 9th Regiment Armory, at the American Tercentenary Education Exposition. The Band, as it always does, gave a very commendable concert, which was enjoyed by all who heard it. The Cadets received many compliments for their excellent performance.

Mr. Edwin Gould, a recently elected member of the Board of Directors of the Institution, was an interested visitor on Thursday last. After spending the morning in the different departments, he left with regret, owing to the fact that he did not have time to see the entire Institution. He has promised to become more familiar with the methods of instruction used in the education of the deaf.

Mr. Gould is an eminent philanthropist and is interested in many charitable enterprises. One of his greatest benevolences is the maintenance of a Clearing House for Protestant children. The object of this institution is to provide commodious quarters and entertainment for those children who are awaiting admission to various institutions, but who are compelled by law to be quarantined for a short period before being permitted to mingle with other children. This work supplements that of a similar nature already carried on by Jewish and Catholic organizations, no provision having been made heretofore for Protestant children.

Two deaf-mutes visited the JOURNAL office on Thursday afternoon, November 20th. They were Mr. Clarence Baldwin, of Brooklyn, N. Y., and Mr. Robert Wedgic, of Washington, D. C. The former renewed his subscription to the JOURNAL, and the latter became a new subscriber. Both are graduates of Gallaudet College, Class of '23.

Cadet Corporal Pierre Blend was at Loew's Metropolitan Theatre, Brooklyn, where Jack Dempsey, the world's heavyweight, appeared on the stage for an exhibition bout.

Last Thursday afternoon, the Fanwood Five played against Bryant High School on the Bryant's court. The opponents had not been beaten, having won five straight. Never before had the Fanwood team suffered so much in a game, due to many fumbles and the lack of skill and "pep." Cadet William Kahn, center star, made a poor showing. Cadet Louis Rosensweet, center star, had to be excused to go to 9th Regiment Armory with the Band for exhibition. Alessi and Parsell played a fine guarding game for Bryant, while Cerniglio and Kerwin starred for Fanwood. Fanwoods lost by 40 to 9.

FANWOOD	POS.	BRYANT H. S.
Kerwin	R. F.	Michellotte
Cerniglio	L. F.	Fitzpatrick
Kahn	C.	Platz
Hicks	R. G.	Alessi
Behrens	L. G.	Parsell

Field Goals—Fanwood—Kerwin, 2; Cerniglio, 1; Bryant H. S.—Michellotte, 7; Fitzpatrick, 2; Platz, 3; Alessi, 3; Parsell, 2. Fouls from the floor—Fanwood—Kerwin, 0 out of 2; Cerniglio, 3 out of 5; Hicks, 1 out of 1; Bryant—Platz, 2 out of 4; Substitutions—Bryant—Mitsbach for Fitzpatrick; Mazzarella for Alessi; Fanwood—Ash for Behrens. Referee—Perreth. Umpire—O'Neill. Timekeeper—Scuderi. Scorer—Arne Olson.

Tuesday afternoon after school, instead of Wednesday early morning, the 26th, the pupils were allowed to go to their homes for the Thanksgiving recess, which will end on Monday morning, December 1st.

Cadet Arthur Lander was up at the Polo Grounds to witness a rival gridiron game between Cornell, N. Y., and Dartmouth, N. H.

Last week Cadet Corporal "little" Felix Kowalewski was given a package with some maple sugar by Miss Alice Townsend, a retired teacher of this school. She congratulated him on his promotion to the rank of Corporal. She now resides in Vermont.

COLORADO.

They came, they saw, they conquered. That's about all there is to the tale of the football game in which the Colorado School for the Deaf trimmed Regis High School in Denver to the tune of 34 to 0, on November 15th. Regis outwitted the C. S. D. team, and in the first half it looked as if Regis would be the victor. Regis only chances to score came in the first quarter, when by a series of plays they got to within two feet of the C. S. D. goal. There a line buck failed, then a forward pass was tried and was knocked down by Dyre, the C. S. D. quarter back. After that they did not have a chance. In the second half the C. S. D. boys started some real football, and scored at will through fake forward passes, criss cross plays. Regis was plumb wore out as they never knew where the ball would turn up. Five touchdowns were made, and Dyre dropped-kicked for extra points, only missing once. By the way Dyre is a great player, a good punter and a drop kicker, and as he intends to enter Gallaudet, he will have a chance to show his ability there.

With careful nursing he will turn into one of the best punters seen on Kendall Green in many a moon. Also he has ability in giving signals and tackles hard. As a whole the team played real football, and showed Regis quite a few things. This is the first time a C. S. D. team has ever invaded Denver, and it is to be hoped they will come again and often. Quite a number of Deuverites turned out to see the game, and it was worth seeing. A few were tied down by work, some others didn't seem to know a football from an ostrich egg and stayed at home. John McTigue is wearing a broad grin these days. Why? Mrs. McTigue has returned home from Chicago. Can you blame him. Incidentally John is chairman of the Bunco Party staged by the Frats November 22d. Bunco is new to Denver, should draw a crowd. What we need is something new. The same old thing gets tiresome. John S. Fisher heads the Frat social for December 27th.

J. S. Harvat and T. R. Tausy visited Fred Bates at Ault, Col., on November 1-2. Report hunting was bum.

Miss Irene Roder has left Denver, it is supposed she has returned to her home in Southern Colorado.

Neval Young still lives at Lindon, Col., now driving a truck for a milk route. Neval was recently transferred to Denver Division from Los Angeles, so we presume he has found Colorado the best place after all. The baby of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Allen has been in the Children's Hospital for several weeks. It is not known just what the trouble is. Last reports were the baby was home again and on the road to recovery.

Rev. Mr. Grace will conduct service in Colorado Springs on November 23d, in the afternoon, and also in Pueblo that same evening.

The Women's Guild of all Souls' Mission are preparing to give a social in December or January. Announcement later.

COLUMBINITE.

PHILADELPHIA.

The arrangements for Thanksgiving Day at All Souls' Church for the Deaf, November 27th, consist of a short service in the Church at 7:45 P. M. It will be followed by moving pictures in the Parish Hall and later by dancing. A special surprise has been prepared for the evening, but we are not at liberty to speak more about it in advance of its occurrence. Coffee, sandwiches, etc., may be obtained during the evening at a nominal price. A small admission price will be charged to meet expenses. A pleasant evening is anticipated at this event. All welcome.

Mrs. Warren M. Smaltz has been a patient at the Episcopal Hospital the past two weeks, having undergone an operation. The operation is said to have been successful, and barring additional trouble, she may be able to leave the hospital in a short time. Her many friends wish her a speedy recovery.

Mr. Kelly H. Stevens, teacher at the School for the Deaf, Trenton, N. J., gave an interesting and entertaining travelogue talk before the Philadelphia Local Branch at All Souls' Parish House on the 15th inst.

NOTED NUPTIALS AT PHOENIXVILLE, PA.

One of the prettiest of the early autumn weddings took place, at nine o'clock in St. Mary's Church, October 15th, 1924, Phoenixville, when Miss Marie Rose Kane became the bride of Mr. John James O'Neill. The ceremony was performed, and the Nuptial Mass celebrated by the Rev. Francis J. Kane, an uncle of the bride and rector of the Corpus Christi Church, Philadelphia, Pa.

The maid of honor was Miss Alice M. Kane, sister of the bride, Francis J. O'Neill, was his brother's bestman. The ushers were: Aloysius J. G. O'Neill and Joseph F. Kane.

The bride's gown of white satin was fashioned on simple lines and trimmed with an imported cream lace panel and orange blossoms. She wore a tulle veil with orange blossoms, and carried a shower bouquet of bridal roses and lilies of the valley.

The maid of honor wore a frock of flesh and orchid tinted chiffon, trimmed with silver lace, and an orchid velvet hat, and carried a bouquet of roses and autumn leaves.

During the Mass, several selections were rendered by Miss Naomi Carney, organist; J. Raymond Duffy, violin, and J. Fred Shoemaker. Present in the sanctuary were: Rev. James H. Gavins and Rev. John P. Callaghan.

After the ceremony, a wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride, after which Mr. and Mrs. John O'Neill left on an extended trip to parts unknown.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Kane, and the groom, the son of Mrs. Susan M. O'Neill, nee Quigley, and of the late John W. O'Neill. They are well known among the younger set. Mr. and Mrs. John O'Neill will be at home after November 1st.

A large number of out-of-town guests were at the wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Ash, of Phoenixville, Pa., attended the wedding of Mr. and Mrs. John O'Neill.

At All Souls' Church on Sunday, October 26th, the Rev. W. M. Smaltz baptized John Leon Lindell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Lindell, October 28th, in Rectory, and in presence of a large number of friends, Rev. Smaltz baptized Mrs. Elsie Mary Megonigal, Miss Alma Edna, and Miss Emily Marie Megonigal. The sponsors were Mr. Geo. Porter, Mrs. Emma Rival and Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Dorworth.

On October 29th, at 4 P. M., Rev. Smaltz married Robert J. Robinson to Marian L. Wildermuth, at the home of the bride in Olney.

The Beth Israel Association for the Deaf has, we understand, been given quarters in the large, new building of the Young Men's and Young Women's Hebrew Associations at Broad and Pine Streets, almost directly opposite the building, which was formerly the Pennsylvania Institution for the Deaf, and now meets there.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis Detweiler gave a surprise birthday party in honor of Miss Elizabeth Hubert at their home recently. The evening was pleasantly spent in various ways after which refreshments were served. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Chas. M. Pennell, Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Yerkes, Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Dorworth and their boy, Norman; Mrs. Della Cloud, Mrs. Bessie Gauthier, Mrs. May Sichel, Edward Sichel, Mrs. Anna Hagy, and Messrs. Wright Garlick, Frank Dugan and Milton Haines.

Mrs. Theodore B. Souder, of Wilmington, Del., returned recently from a two weeks' visit to her mother and brothers at South Bend, Indiana. She enjoyed the visit surely, but added that she preferred to live in the East.

Henry Friemel, formerly of this city, but now living on the Longberger farm near Williamsport, Pa., has been spending two weeks here.

SHOP EARLY.

Last year, through the generous co-operation of the press, the movies and other advertising mediums, Christmas mailers were induced to dispatch their Yuletide presents earlier in the month than ever before in the history of the institution of gift exchanging in the holiday season.

As a result, the spectacle of the last minute rush of former years, with its attendant heartbreaking labor on the part of wearied and nerve worn store clerks and postal employees, was avoided.

This year Postmaster General New and First Assistant Postmaster General John H. Bartlett have determined to make an even better record and to banish for all time the suffering undergone in past years by those engaged in the sale or transportation of gifts. They hope to make "Shop Early" and "Mail Early" a habit with the American people.

Mailing early does not mean December 1st, or before, but if everyone could get their holiday tokens in the mail between December 10th, and December 20th, the post office could not ask more.

Particular attention this year will be paid to greeting cards. Despite the success last year it was noted that the last-minute mail consisted largely of cards. Possibly many of them were returned greetings to friends, heard from on a previous mail, but overlooked on the original Christmas list. Unlike parcels and letters containing money orders, cards, of course, can not well be marked "Do Not Open Until Christmas." Therefore, it is possible that the many mailers hold them until the last to insure delivery on Christmas Eve. This class of mailers this year, however, may find their cards undelivered until after Christmas Day.

Believing that the energies of postal employees should not be sapped to the last degree for any avoidable reason, and, intent upon securing for them the same Christmas privileges enjoyed by others, Postmaster General New asks the hearty co-operation of the public. The last-minute, or zero hour, has been moved up, so that all postal employees may eat their Christmas dinners at home. Rural carriers will deliver no mail at all on Christmas day, and clerks and carriers in the city offices will stop work promptly at noon.

THE dear old mother of Mr. Alex L. Pach passed away on Saturday, November 29th. She would have been eighty-six had she survived till December 22d. But on Thanksgiving Day she began to decline. All the family were summoned to her bedside. She tried to spell on her fingers up to the last. Her husband preceded her about eleven years ago, and to cheer her loneliness, it was her deaf son's custom to write at least three letters a week. She was well known by deaf friends of her son, who visited her and shared the hospitality of her beautiful home in years long past. She leaves behind four sons, all of whom are men of prominence and means. The sympathy of a legion of friends go out to Mr. Pach in the loss of a mother who was always kindly, gentle and good.

Gallaudet College.

Dr. Gault spoke to the Speech-Reading Club November 24th, and entertained the audience with a number of jokes and witty anecdotes. Miss Coleman did not meet her classes during the third week in November. Her mother, Mrs. T. H. Coleman, had her tonsils removed on Monday; but hemorrhages set in and weakened her so much that the operation proved to be a serious affair. Under her daughter's care, we are glad to say, Mrs. Coleman recovered rapidly and was able to come home the 25th.

The Thanksgiving holidays began at noon, the 26th. The following morning the Y. M. C. A. gave a program appropriate to the day in Chapel. Mr. Falk, '25, spelled the President's Proclamation. Mr. Kaercher, '26, sang in enchanting manner "America, the Beautiful." Then followed a speech, "Thanksgiving and Its Origin," delivered by Mr. Jacobson, '27. The services closed with a prayer by Mr. Bradley, '26. After Chapel exercises every one went out on Hotchkiss Field to see the most spectacular football game ever staged in this part of the country. Yale and Notre Dame, teams made up of "mollycoddles," clashed for the championship title. It was a fierce contest. Piledriver, Kitchen-Cleaver, Hash, Goose Step and Sad Sam, were some of the formations used. Reneau, P. C., with Yale, wrote his name among the immortals when he raced over for a touchdown in the first quarter, but the Arkansas whirlwind, Shibley, '27, effaced it, when he flashed across Yale's goal to tie the score in the final period. All players wore rubber shoes. Several were apparently hurt, at intervals, and vigorous first aid was given, some of the fallen being hauled in a wheelbarrow. It was altogether off a very laughable tilt. Yale was recruited from the Freshman and Prep classes, and Notre Dame from the three higher classes.

In the evening the Y. W. C. A. conducted a "Backward Party" in Chapel. Many games were played in reverse order, wherever possible. It was amusing to watch persons running backward try to tag each other. The management is to be praised for the thoroughly enjoyable evening they provided.

Friday evening found most of the students assembled in Chapel again, this time to see the movie, "The Call of The Wild," and the side feature, Pathe News.

Saturday evening the young men and ladies assembled in the Men's Refectory for an informal dance. Graceful couples swayed about the floor in smooth cadence to the jazzy notes of a Victrola. The two hours of dancing passed all too quickly.

Monday morning classes were resumed with freshened minds and a lot of pep, which it is hoped will live on until the December term exams are over.

Mr. Bouchard from Connecticut, and Mr. Dobbins from New Jersey, both of the 1921 class, attended the dance and spent Sunday visiting with friends on the Green.

The many friends of Mr. E. S. Foltz will be glad to learn of his appointment to a position on the Board of Directors of the National Association of the Deaf. The Association is to be complimented on its wise choice and it is doubtful if a more logical one could be found. The fact that there are now three Kansans holding high honors in the Association is not to be overlooked, i.e., Dr. A. L. Roberts, president; Prof. F. A. Moore, secretary-treasurer; and Mr. E. S. Foltz, board of directors—all three product of this school and Gallaudet College. It is doubtful if any one State could show its equal—having the same number of officers in a National Association at the same time.—Kansas Star.

OFFICIAL

WHAT'S THE MATTER WITH THE N. A. D.?

At the outset, we beg our readers' pardon for having to inflict upon them what is to follow. Mud-slinging and the venting of personal spleen have no place in the activities of a welfare organization such as the N. A. D. We do not intend to vie with our critics in that highly discreditable procedure. But we do feel called upon to answer some very misleading and totally ignorant propaganda that lately has been fed to our friends and fellow-members down in Dixie.

In the first place, at the Atlanta convention in 1923, it was a campaign argument, advanced by the adherents of a certain candidate for president, that if the present incumbent of the office were elected, he would be prejudiced and unfair in his treatment of the South. The originator of that argument, if argument it may be termed, is known, and it was advanced for purely selfish reasons in the effort to delude voters. It gained considerable headway during the convention. But it was wholly without foundation in fact, and nothing since the convention has shown the president of the N. A. D. to be unfair or biased in his treatment of the South.

The convention gave the South two major offices, the two vice-presidencies, electing capable and loyal Southerners to fill them. That was due the South for its commendable work prior to and during the convention.

Since the convention, the South has been recognized just as much in committee appointments as before the convention.

The president has taken action in two important cases involving conditions in the South, during his past year in office.

The South has not been slighted and it will not be slighted by the present administration, misleading and selfish and lying propaganda to the contrary.

In the second place, statements have been printed in the deaf press, saying that the administration was to publish the proceedings of the Atlanta convention in serial form in a magazine, after delaying publication for a year. The originator of that statement was either misinformed and duped by someone, or was deliberately trying to stir up antagonism toward the present administration.

The facts are that the proceedings of the Atlanta convention have been held up on account of the high cost of printing, the prices asked being prohibitive for the usual volume issued following convention. To make matters worse, the Atlanta Local committee did not turn over some of its surplus to help with this printing, as has usually been the case following former conventions. The Local committee did turn a handsome sum into the Endowment Fund, and is to be commended for so doing. But the fact remains that some of its surplus could have been used to good purpose in helping with the proceedings.

The cost of the Detroit proceedings was over $800.00 for printing alone, and not including other costs. This figure was approximately half of what it would have cost to print these proceedings in a regular book shop, the work having been done through the kindness of Dr. Hall at the Gallaudet press on Kendall Green. We could not have printed the Atlanta proceedings in the usual elaborate form for anywhere under $1,000.00. The cost would have been nearer $1,200.00.

Under the circumstances, the administration did not feel justified in using up all the available money of the association in printing proceedings. It finally obtained the consent of the Silent Worker management to print the proceedings, and the work is now being done.

The proceedings will be printed in our issue of the "Worker." There will be no serial printing, as our misguided propagandist has stated.

EVERY MEMBER of the association will receive a copy of the issue containing the proceedings, no matter whether a subscriber or not, the N. A. D. buying and sending copies to non-subscribers.

EVERY LIBRARY of consequence in the country and Europe will receive copies of the proceedings, as heretofore.

It is a pity we have to waste time telling these facts to a public, part of which has been utterly misinformed by someone who could easily have ascertained the truth before broadcasting his ignorance and misleading others.

The president of the association has printed and distributed the last four reports of this body, in his capacity as secretary, and the Atlanta report will be his fifth. The reports that have gone before speak for themselves. The Atlanta report will be in keeping with the others.

If certain persons who may have a personal grudge against the president have been trying to make the delay in getting out the Atlanta report appear as an act of unfairness and prejudice toward the South on the president's part, we cannot help it. We can only submit the foregoing explanation, which is the truth. The misguided individuals who have circulated this propaganda are not hurting the president.

They are hurting themselves and the N. A. D.

They are hurting the section in which they live, the South, which is the last place in the world where we would look for suspicion, unfairness, and questionable tactics.

Here, we must pay our respects to the editor of the Alabama Messenger, a transplanted Northerner, Mr. John H. McFarlane, who in the issue of his school paper on November 8th, 1924, laid down the dictum that the N. A. D. has been a failure since the last administration, or rather since the last president stepped out. Mr. McFarlane has been fed up on the supposed superiority of the last administration and cannot see any good in the present administration. He says that the N. A. D. is dead, because it has not printed the Atlanta proceedings.

Usually noted for his adherence to truth and his pious mien, Mr. McFarlane lends himself to the propaganda that the N. A. D. is dead, without advancing any other reason than that it has not printed the Atlanta proceedings. We have answered this criticism earlier in this article.

Now we propose to show up Mr. McFarlane. On February 16th, 1924, the president offered Mr. McFarlane a place on the reorganized Deaf Committee, believing that he could be of service in the South. Mr. McFarlane refused to co-operate with the present administration to the extent of accepting the place, claiming that he had done enough for the N. A. D.

That should make some of the old War Horses in the N. A. D. smile. They and a host of others have been working for the N. A. D. all their lives, and will continue to work for it as long as they are able to put in a good kick.

This attitude on Mr. McFarlane's part lets him out. If he cannot co-operate and continue to uphold the traditions of his adopted South, he should not criticize and least of all should he criticize on false premises, as he has in this instance. The truth may be violated in more ways than one. The Lord hateth a prevaricator, in whatever guise he may masquerade.

The N. A. D. is going forward. Its work is being carried on by the present administration to the best of its ability with the funds it has at hand and the co-operation it can obtain.

We believe that it has accomplished as much in its first year as has any other administration that has gone before.

We have not felt called upon to rush into print with long and nicely worded articles, but with no real accomplishment behind them, as has sometimes been done in the past. Thinking people are not deceived by such tactics. A lot of noise may be mistaken by some for accomplishment. We have preferred to cut out the noise and try to get the machinery in order, to accomplish something worth while for the deaf.

The routine work of the N. A. D. takes up a great deal of the officers' time. The correspondence and direction of various activities demands time that the officers could well use to their personal advantage. They are giving their time ungrudgingly, the time that they can spare after a hard day's work in making a living. They should be criticized less and co-operated with more. We are thankful that there are many good, loyal members of the N. A. D., who are co-operating with us and giving us encouragement, instead of hurling brickbats and offering no solutions of problems effecting the deaf.

The N. A. D. knows no North, no East, no West, no South. The deaf man, woman, or child, wherever he or she may exist, who is in trouble and discriminated against, can confidently look to the N. A. D. for help to the full measure of its means and ability.

There is nothing the matter with the N. A. D., save its self-appointed critics and its disappointed self-seekers.

ARTHUR L. ROBERTS,
President,
CHICAGO, Nov. 18, 1924.

CHICAGO.

"There was the sound of revelry by night,
And Deafdom's chivalry were gathered there;
It was indeed a most entrancing sight—
Full evening dress, white arms well-formed and fair,
Sons of Success, and Daughters Free from Care;
Sedate and stately, upright, brave and bright,
All in accord to help our Aged welfare I."

All receipt-records for bunco and "500" parties whereabouts were shattered to smithereens, on Friday, the 21st, when the exclusive "Saturday Evening Club"—consisting of the oral nabobs, several being wealthy, and mostly attending in full evening dress—gave their first social feature not devoted to their own direct interests. Receipts $108.90 for the Home for Aged Deaf.

It took long ages for the S. E. C., to "get in the swim," they certainly entered the pond with a healthy splash. It encouraged them to further efforts, and encouraged other local societies to do likewise.

It was a bad night, very bad, yet the Home for Aged Deaf was packed with the elect and others. Mrs. Ward Small, as chairman, played the role of an old plantation hostess to perfection. Nine tables of bunco and fifteen tables of "500," playing for a total of twenty-nine prizes. Five gallons of ice-cream—donated by one of the members; chairs and tables were rented—someone donated their services. Those orlists certainly know how to manage things. If they try it next year, pick a Saturday date, a nice night, and a large hall, they will jam the place. Twenty-nine nice prizes—Oh my! Deafdom is still talking avidly of it, and those who did not attend, are mentally kicking themselves.

Miss Florence Baker, a non-resident member of the S. E. C., sent the committee her check for $10, from some point in California or Colorado.

DEAF STUDENTS PLAY CLEVER FOOTBALL

JACKSONVILLE, ILL., November 26—Shouting their signals with their fingers, and hearing them and the blasts of the referee's whistle with their eyes, boys of the state school for the deaf here have overcome the handicap of complete deafness and have produced a football team that has made a record better than the average high school eleven of the state.

Last season and this season the team piled up a total of 293 points, against 0 made by its opponents, and won eleven of its sixteen games, in spite of the fact that football has been played at the school for only three years.

WON FIVE GAMES LAST YEAR

In 1923 the team defeated Palmyra, Greenfield, Rott High, Auburn, Benton and Taylorsville, but lost to Jacksonville, Champaign and the Kansas school for the deaf. This year the team opened its season by avenging itself on Jacksonville, 39 to 0, and defeated Rott high, Beardstown, Macomb and Flora. Champaign and Pana were victorious in their games with the deaf team.

The team invented the "huddle" for its own use at about the same time that Coach Robert Zupke, of Illinois, discovered it. Circling about the quarterback, they watch his fingers for the signals. Each formation is named after a university, numbers are used to indicate the man who is to carry the ball and letters indicate the point in the line which he is to hit.

GUIDE RUNNERS BY CLEVER CODE

Thus the quarterback flashes "Dame R 7," the signal for the Notre Dame shift on which player No. 7 is to carry the ball through the point in the line designated as R. The players spring to their positions, another signals and the backs shift or "hep" and the moment that they stop the play is away for a good gain.

The players are trained to watch the referee closely and when he blows his whistle they usually know it, although the referees are requested to raise their arm the moment the ball is dead. Most hearing teams, if they depend on their eyes would be penalized frequently for tackling, blocking and piling on after the ball is dead. The Jacksonville team, however, suffers very few penalties.—Chicago Journal, November 26th.

The American recently had a nice front-page write-up of Helen M. Martin, the talented blind deaf girl of St. Charles, Ill., and this worthwhile excerpt in bold-type: "Those who are to be pitied in this world are not the ones who have lost their sight, their speech or their hearing, but rather those who, having all their faculties, are unable to talk, do not hear and will not see."—Helen M. Martin.

In the "Do you remember way back when" department of the Tribune of the 17th, our last great major leaguer was mentioned twice:—Cubs and Giants played on the west side, and we would shout to Dummy Taylor, "Who's pitching?"—L. G. O'B., Bloomington, Ill.

Rube Waddell, Bugs Raymond, Dummy Taylor, and Eddie McFarland of the White Sox, were unusual characters in baseball."—Will R.

The Rev. Dr. James Henry Cloud sent the Home twenty-three and a half pounds of honey.

Mesdames Maiworm, Hagemeyer and Mickenbam united to engineer a pretty shower for Mrs. F. Collignon, formerly Edna Twiehaus, on the 23d. Two dozen ladies attended.

And still they come! From St. Paul and Minneapolis, I mean. That bunch of two dozen handsome, happy, snappy, well-dressed young Chicago ladies at the convention last July has proven a splendid advertisement—even if Denver swiped the '27 convention from us—and ever since then additions to our colony have been dribbling in. Most of them land jobs and remain. The latest Minneapolis lads to arrive are Henry Nordlund—who secured work in a garage here—and Irving Dubey, who is still hunting a job.

Business conditions fair. Poor in the printing trades—for the Chicago scale of $51 to $63 has drawn hundreds of small-town printers here, and there are not enough jobs to go around. Living conditions are high. The clubs have plenty of good times, though, and there is relative peace between the various factions.

Young John Carlson had his appendix removed at Wesley Hospital on the 17th.

After a prolonged sojourn in our attractive midst, Alton Odom, sportsman and gentleman-adventurer, has finally bided himself to warmer climes.

Richard B. Crenshaw, a hearing man, secretary of the northern section of the I. S. D. parents' ass'n, announces that there will be a meeting of the organization at the Pas-a-Pas clubrooms on the evening of the 13th. All interested in the welfare of the state school, welcome.

"The tennis boys" will give a bunch and "500" at the Sac on the 20th. E. W. Craig is chairman.

Edwin M. Hazel is well and prospering out in Omaha, where he seems to be in charge of a battery of monotype machines in a large printing plant. He sends in his subscription for the JOURNAL.

Dates ahead. December 13—Frat election, at Sac. Parents association at Pas. 20—"Tennis boys" bunco, Sac. Tree at Pas. 27—Neessam's lecture at Pas. 31—Watch night at Pas. Vaudeville, dancing and frolic at Sac.

A Resolution

ADOPTED BY THE VESTRY OF ALL SOULS' CHURCH FOR THE DEAF, PHILADELPHIA, ON NOVEMBER 4TH, 1924.

WHEREAS, In the course of the changes of this mortal world Charles Orvis Dantzer, for nearly twenty years our faithful minister and friend at All Souls' Church, has been received by the providence of Almighty God into His nearer presence; and

WHEREAS, We have sustained the loss of a loyal friend, preceptor, and priest of God, who was ever faithful to serve the children of silence; and

WHEREAS, Both the Vestry and the Congregation have, through the years of his life in their midst, been blessed by the benediction of his unswerving devotion, consistent Christian example, and faithful stewardship of the mysteries of God; and have enjoyed the benefit of his unceasing efforts for the upbuilding and prosperity of this Church; therefore, be it

Resolved, That we record our sense of an irreparable loss, thanking God for the high privilege vouchsafed us in having known and labored with him, and in being permitted the great inspiration and comforting memory of his example; be it, further,

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be spread upon the minutes of the Vestry; that a copy be sent to the members of his family; and that it be printed in appropriate publications.

NEW JERSEY.

The Jersey City Division, No. 91, N. F. S. D., staged their second annual Masquerade Ball, at Palace Garden, 412 Washington Street, Hoboken, N. J., on Thanksgiving Eve, Wednesday, November 26th, 1924.

The affair was orderly conducted, but did not come up to expectation of its promoters in attendance.

Affairs of this character given by hearing organizations held at the same hall on such an evening have attracted thousands, as it also has at other halls in Hudson County, from whence the Jersey City Division of the Fraternal Order draws its members, and the promoters thought it would be a good occasion to draw a big crowd, as the hall is within easy reach from Manhattan and Brooklyn and the outlying Jersey districts bordering Hoboken, but it did not materialize.

Perhaps the deaf, who are scattered far and wide, did not care to venture out on the eve of the great Festival holiday of the year.

As it is, with the heavy expense involved, it is doubtful, even with the souvenir program the Division issued in connection with the affair, if they will be able to realize much profit.

It was nearly eleven o'clock before the masks, about twenty in all, were marched around the ball room, so that the judges could select winners.

The specifications of award were: First, most handsome; second, comical, and third as the judges in their opinion thought entitled to third prizes.

There were six prizes, three for ladies and an equal number for gentlemen.

The judges were: Joseph Graham, Charles Casella, Anthony Capelle, Thomas Cosgrove and A. Shaw.

The prize winners were:

First prize—Mrs. Helen Christianson, Jockey; Julius Rakow, Red Cross nurse, $7.50 each.

Second prizes—Mrs. Ada Blake, Powder puff; Alfred Greiff, Flip, $5.00 each.

Third prizes—Mrs. Carl Droste, Clothes pin girl; Robert Harth, Pajama kid, advertising No 91, N. F. S. D., $2.50.

There were three turkeys weighing over 23 pounds each, the first one was won by Mr. Feinberg, the second one by Dominick Callabresco.

The third one was raffled off, and Mr. Henry W. Hester, he of the fishing party fame, who is president of Jersey City, No 91, N. F. S. D., was ready to outbid every one. The first bid began at 25 cents. Yes, for a 23-pound turkey that cost $10.80, but the bidders were few, and Mr. Hester won out by paying $5.50 for the turkey.

Mr. Hester was also the lucky one to win a five-dollar goldpiece.

There was good music furnished by the Al Wood's Orchestra, and dancing was kept up from beginning to the close of the affair.

The arrangement committee, who did everything possible to make the affair a success, was composed of John Garland (Chairman), George Brice (Assistant Chairman), Harley Brendall, Henry Hester, Irvin Earnst, Charles Schlipf, Carl Droste, Gabriel Franck, William Flannery.

The Jersey City Division, No. 91, N. F. S. D., is officered as follows: Henry Hester, President; James J. Davison, Vice President; Charles T. Hammer, Secretary; Irvin Earnst, Treasurer; John Garland, Director; Ernest E. DeLaura, Sergeant-at-Arms; Jacob Herbst, George C. Brede and Gabriel Franck, Board of Trustees.

The New Jersey Silent Athletic Club, which was recently organized, held a meeting at the Palace Garden, Hoboken, N. J., on the same evening that the Jersey City Division, No. 91, N. F. S. D., held its Bal Masque, and elected the following officers for the ensuing year: President, Bernard L. Doyle; Vice-President, John McClelland; Secretary, Harley C. Brendall; Trustee, Albert Neger.

The aforementioned club wishes to remind the deaf of its inaugural ball, which is to take place at Odd Fellows' Hall, Jersey City, N. J., on Saturday, December 13th.

The hall can be reached by a few minutes' walk from Summit Avenue (Jersey City) Station of Hudson and Manhattan Tubes.

There will be prizes galore to be awarded to original and handsome costumes, besides a dancing contest, open to all, will be held and prizes awarded to winners.

Readers, remember the date, December 13th.
